Teaching on the Run Workshops: 2023

About Teaching on the Run (TOTR)

The Teaching on the Run (TOTR) program is an education program that includes several foundation workshops designed to enable participants to apply sound teaching and learning principles in their workplace environment. The suite of foundation workshops helps clinical staff become more efficient and effective in their educational role.

This workshop series will enable reflection and planning around learning and teaching programs as we focus on each topic area.

Workshop Delivery

Each workshop will be delivered in a blended learning format - 3/4 - 1hour online preparation and a 1.5 hour workshop at WACRH (Geraldton) or online (TEAMS). Certificates are available on the completion of individual workshops.

There are two series being run; both require some online preparation and the workshop can be attended face to face (Geraldton) or online vis TEAMS. Depending on numbers, the workshops may be combined and be on TEAMS.

Confirmation of Attendance

Priority will be given to those health professionals who are hosting/supervising students through the WA Centre for Rural Health in 2023. Please confirm which workshops you would like to attend by returning the next page ticking which ones you would like. Once your registration is received, you will be provided with a code to complete the online self-sign up and set up access to the learning materials.

There is no cost to participate. Please be aware there is a limit on attendance numbers.

Facilitator

Kathryn Fitzgerald will facilitate the workshops. Kathryn is an accredited TOTR facilitator and an experienced allied health professional and educator.
